

Course: LANGUAGE AND INTERACTION

Code: 2026007

Syllabus:

The objective is to introduce the theoretical-methodological assumptions of the Ethnomethodological Conversation Analysis from central themes related to this, such as the conversational shift, the methods used in transcription of oral data, repair mechanisms, organization of preference, overlap, sequential organization of conversation, speech institution. The aim is to enable the individual to develop a "structural sight" for conversation (daily or institutional), allowing the analysis of spontaneous data according to the vision adopted here.
